INTAKE : MARCH | SEPTEMBER

THE DOCTOR OF PHILOSOPHY (PHD)

The Doctor of Philosophy (PhD) programme offers opportunities for specialization in psychology, social work, counselling, correctional studies, or social studies.
Candidates may select a specific field or area of specialization and propose a research project. Candidates may also consult academic staff, seek a supervisor, or contact the Postgraduate Programme Chair for further guidance.

PROGRAMME STRUCTURE

The Doctor of Philosophy (PhD) programme is offered by full research. Students are expected to have adequate research knowledge and skills as stipulated by the Academic Committee. Students who do not meet these requirements are required to register for and pass the following two (2) prerequisite courses with at least a grade B before continuing with their research:

SZRZ6014 Research Methodology
SCLE6014 Academic Writing; and/or Any other courses as determined by the supervisor or Academic Committee

To complete the programme, students are also required to:
i. Present their research work at any academic seminars, symposiums, or colloquiums organised by the School.
ii. Present and successfully defend their research proposal before a committee.
iii. Produce at least two (2) articles, under Option A or Option B:
Option A: At least one (1) article accepted for publication in an ISI-indexed or Scopus journal, and at least one (1) article under review in a refereed journal.
Option B: Two (2) articles published in refereed journals.
iv. Attend a viva session to defend the thesis.
v. Submit the final thesis.
